REPORTS.

From Siam Times August 25th.

The Chinese Merchant bound from Hongkong to Bangkok, reports —

July 10, saw a full rigged ship attacked by pirates and probably captured, close to Cape Verella.

The vessel was attacked by three junks; firing kept up about one hour between the ship and junks.

The Captain supposes from appearances that the vessel must have been captured, as she was run into a bay North of Cape Verella.

The Chinese Merchant was chased by the three junks, but fortunately a breeze favored his escape. The Captain says, that he had neither arms nor ammunition to defend himself and he been attacks.—Ibid. Sept. 8th.

H. I. M. gun-boat, Encrecastoux was attacked by three piratical junks on July 10th; after 2 hours hard fighting she was obliged to take shelter near Cape Verella. The junks were lashed together lengthways and were heavily armed but they suffered much damage from the gun-boats firing. During the fight the pirates maneuvered their boats with oars. After the gun-boat had been driven away, the China Merchant being in sight they made away after her but a breeze springing up she escaped, as mentioned in our last issue.

By the S. S. Wychoff, from Saigon, we have received further particulars regarding the attack made by pirates on H. I. M. Steamer Entrecasteaux, who had on board 400,000 dollars in specie, ransom money paid at Hue. After receiving some dozen shots from the pirates she was obliged to take shelte to prevent this large sum of money falling into their hands; the gun-boat din not quit the fight till the piratical junks had suffered severely from her guns. The Commander and officers of the Entrecasteaux, are well known in Bangkok and much respected during their visit here.

The master of the Siamese barque Marion, which left this port for Hongkong, on 8th May last, when off the Cochina China coast told the Supercargo there was a short supply of water and fire wood on board, and wished him to go on shore in one of the vessels boats to a place about 8 miles off, where Capt Fargerstrom (Russian), said he had previously obtained supplies. The Chinchew and his clerks accortingly went ashore, but directly they had landed and were out of sight, Fargerstrom ordered sail and went away with the vessel.

It is supposed the Marion will be taken to California. The officers and crew were composed of a strange medley of Russians, Germans, English and Americans.

The Marion was originally an American barque, built at Baltimore, and was sold here in November last, for 10,000 dollars

E. H. POLLARD, Esq.

The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony with Branches at the most important places in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased so rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only branches of Corporations whose head quarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactorily with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to this Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Bank of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency, will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradore system (so far as money is concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transaction of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shews that the largest profits are obtained by those Public Companies which possess an interested local body of Proprietors or Shareholders whose pecuniary success

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere, who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of MESSRS. DENT & Co.

THE COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA.

THIS Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing a site in the Colony of Hongkong for Docks and constructing Docks and erecting suitable Premises thereon for carrying on the Business of Building or Docking and Repairing Steamers and Sailing Vessels, and for the purchase of the Docks now owned and carried on at Whampoa by Messrs. T. HUNT & Co. with the Appurtenances Plant and Good-will of the Docking Business of that Firm.

It is proposed to register the Company as one of Limited Liability either under the Imperial Act or under any Ordinance which the local Legislature may pass enabling local Companies to do so, the property of the Company in the meantime being vested in the Trustees, and the Deed of Settlement of the Company, now in course of preparation, is being framed in accordance with this intention.

The very considerable increase in the number of Vessels employed in what may be termed local trade, or in voyages that either originate or terminate, at Hongkong, in addition to the great quantity of tonnage visiting the Port from all quarters of the World, affords ample scope for the remunerative operations of Dock Companies, in addition to those which are already in existence.

Application has been made to Her Majesty's Government with reference to obtaining a site for the proposed Docks in the Colony, and the project has been favorably entertained, steps being in progress to facilitate this object, the necessary preliminary investigations as to the suitable character of the proposed site having been conducted and satisfactorily reported upon, by Mr. S. B. HAWLING.

Liberal support has been promised to the undertaking which it is contemplated much necessarily prove a very remunerative one.

Further, applications for Shares can till further notice be addressed to the Undersigned from whom forms of application and all particulars can be obtained.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, 29TH SEPTEMBER, 1864.

We doubt if we have placed the job connected with the appointment of Mr. Kinder to be Master of the Mint in as forcible a light as the bare facts of the case warrant. We call the attention of our readers to the following dates in connexion with the occurrence.

On the 23rd June 1863, (Governor Robinson being then in England) the Treasury, in addressing the Colonial Office on the establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, thus wrote. "My Lords consider, that the success of the "measure will greatly depend on the efficiency "of the person selected, for this important "post [Master of the Hongkong Mint] and "they suggest that practical acquaintance with "the sciences of chemistry, metallurgy, and "mechanics should be regarded as essential "qualifications for the post, in order that the "master may not only be able to control the "operations of the principal officers, but be "able to assume the immediate direction of "those operations in cases of leave of absence "from illness or other causes."

Captain Kinder, whose only qualification for the office seems to be that he is a locomotive engineer, was appointed Master of the Mint in November 1863.

The "Ordinance for establishing a Mint in the Colony of Hongkong," was not passed until the 26th February 1864.

The site for the Mint was not selected until the 23rd March 1864.

So that a man, leading at least two thirds of the qualifications laid down by the Lords of the Treasury, was appointed Master of the Hongkong Mint three months before the establishment had been sanctioned by law, and four months before a site had been selected for the building. We may confidently add, two years before his services can possibly be required.

There must be several officers connected with the Royal Mint, who are in every way adapted for the post—accomplished metallurgists, and au fait in all the arts and mysteries of coining from years of practical experience. Men, who being in receipt of salaries of £500 per annum perhaps, would have accepted with avidity the Hongkong nomination. But it will always be found that Government subordinates are never the recipients of political patronage—no matter how conspicuous their merits. Old and well tried subordinates have had their reward—no political services can be expected from them, and as for their friends, their day must long since have gone by.

It was the same in the appointment of a deputy Post-Master for this colony. Surely it might have been supposed that for such an office above all others, a man up to the work would have been selected; and as there are thousands of hard working deserving clerks in the department of the Imperial Post Office, it might be concluded that one of these would have been selected. But no—patronage claimed the appointment, and it was given to the Paymaster of a Volunteer Regiment, a gentleman at date of his nomination, who knew no more about Post Office affairs than Capt. Kinder did about coining.

This abuse of political patronage is a great infliction on a small colony, and should be jealously watched. The departments of the Post-Office and of the Mint are conducted entirely at the risk of the colony—it is impossible that their operations can produce any such Imperial responsibilities as will justify the Home Government in claiming the patronage of the appointment of their officers. It is right that the Home Government should appoint the Governor, the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, and even the heads of the leading departments, because it is a political necessity that H. M. Ministers should have direct influence over the legislature of the colony—but no such necessity can exist with respect to the Post-Office and the Mint, the result of which is speculative, and the profit or loss whereof, depending entirely on good or bad management, are to be received or borne by the colony. Surely nepotism and good management cannot go hand in hand—neither is it possible for a colonial government to exercise control when political jobbery obstructs them. Therefore in a pecuniary point of view the Home Government are virtually robbing the colony when they thus obtrude the patronage which they unrighteously claim.

The Lords of the Treasury themselves laid down the qualifications for the Master of the Mint: those qualifications have been disregarded; political patronage has supervened, and if the Mint should prove a losing affair, the colony must bear loss.

We hear that the Portuguese community, being desirous of building a Grand Stand for themselves on the Race Course, applied some months ago to the Surveyor General for a suitable site. The application was favorably entertained, and a piece of ground was promised, but up to this time nothing has been done, the promise standing unredeemed.

The idea of the projectors was to order an iron structure from England of a simple yet elegant design, and we make no doubt that with good management, the affair might be managed very economically and effectively too.

We further learn that overtures have been made to the leading men in the undertaking, with the view of forming a combination with the Race Committee, and entering into arrangements for the construction of a large Grand Stand, on a scale commensurate with the full requirements of the colony.

We would strongly advise the Portuguese community to have nothing to do with such an amalgamation. They will find that magnificent ideas will set all arrangements and calculations at defiance—that the estimates will be fully expended before the building is half finished—that it will be heavily in debt, and that as much more as was originally calculated will be required to complete it. That it will have to be mortgaged for the required amount, and that when it shall finally be completed, it will prove a regular botch and will require extensive alterations to render it serviceable.

We feel great faith in our prognostications, because no architect in Hongkong could ever have had any experience in the construction of Grand Stands, and they all seem, as a rule, to be above availing of the experience of those in England whose practical knowledge would be instructive to them.

The same remark applies to drains, seawalls, roads, streets, bridges, &c. No architect in Hongkong ever learnt practically how to construct such works, and let the reader observe the dreadful mess that has been made of them. The Hongkong architects have learnt to build houses, and in that respect they excel—but as for tubular bridges, grand stands, tunnels, convict hulks, theatres, wharves &c they are simple tyros and experimentalists.

Besides—the Portuguese community had much better do by themselves. How is it possible there can be any pleasure in the contemplated amalgamation when such people as Mr. Ronnie, the original Jerry and Tweeds, are tolerated by the British community. Surely if he would not hesitate to insult the Volunteer corps in the manner he did at the club, he would care little for the Portuguese, should a conflict of ideas prevail on the part of the fair sex at the Grand Stand.

The step too would segregate the upper class of Portuguese from the lower, which it is not the wish of either to effect. Far better that they should have their own Grand Stand and enjoy the reunion which would naturally result, without unbarrassment or interference

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of the "Daily Press."

DEAR SIR,—Your paper being the recognized medium through which the public may make known their grievances I beg on behalf of the residents in the eastern part of the town to claim a little space in which to allude to the tremendous report of the gun from H. B. M.'s ship "Severn," fired at 9 P.M. and at daylight, which startles grown people, and what is worst of all shakes the nerves of the sick, and awakens children to say nothing of ceilings being endangered. If the gallant Captain of the "Severn," should meet with these lines I am sure he would give orders to have a gun fired which would make a less loud report and oblige many people.

Yours faithfully,
PRAYA.

Hongkong, 28th September, 1864.

To the Editor of the "Daily Press."

DEAR SIR,—It's great fun you know, wording all the stuff a fellah sees witten by other fellah's you know in a nutshpaper, sowcaming fun by Jingo. There was a letter in your paper about some fellah and a Bell, wether a good idea; what a fellah wants by witing about Bells for no fellah can understand, but then the other fellah said that he was chaffing about a Bell, I mean the other fellah of course, he said it was the Bishops Bell that made all the row you know, and lots of things that no fellah can see.

The other fellah, wackonumbers, no that's not it, weekolects, got him at last, that the other fellah should go to Talpingshan if he wants Bells and I suppose he must had the winging of some of those you know, as seems to know more about them than most fellahs; about that kind of thing you know, of course you know, no fellah can weaken upon what the other fellah means, but I know when I go to dinner a Howid Bell makes such a wow that no fellah can understand.

I dont know the fellah who wote first you know, but I take this, what is it, of thanking him you know; it is weally a Howid, nasty, disagweeable Bell, in fact the Bishops Palace wants weforming.

Its all very well for a fellah to talk about Orange Peel that visites to the Bishops you know, but then the fellah says that the other fellah you know ought to write about the gigantic things; no fellah can understand this, of course the Bell you know is loud enough and howid enough for any fellale to understand did Twish some other fellah you know would send a Bell up to ventilate it or an other fellah.

The other fellale says the other fellah ought to wite about the woods and all that kind of thing which no fellah can understand, and I beseech him the fellow to do it himself if he can do it you know better than you can you know.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.
In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undermentioned scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to—

Suez,	$480
Malta,	510
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	530
Southampton,	550

Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

Suez,	$920
Malta,	1,020
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,080
Southampton,	1,100

Reserved Rates for Married Couples.

Suez,	$1,160
Malta,	1,260
Gibraltar,	1,348
Marseilles,	1,348
Southampton,	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.
The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—
For First-class Passengers, $32
Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

EXTRACTS.

Railroads.

Railroad from Ava to China.—We have been favoured with the perusal of a letter, from a gentleman now at Mandalay, intimating to a friend at Rangoon that His Majesty of Ava had entrusted to him the superintendence of the construction of a railway to the frontier of Western China. His Majesty, it is said, undertakes to form the railway at his own cost, and will, of course, expect to receive all the profits of the undertaking.

That it is the present intention of the King to promote this important work, we cannot doubt; but how far he may be disposed to carry it on as his own, nobody can positively say. Mr. Barlow has just returned from Mandalay and gives out, we hear, that he has been most successful in treating with His Majesty for permission to construct a railway to China. Mr. Barlow, as our readers will remember, represents the London firm of Messrs. Halliday, Fox & Co. he was sent to Ava for the express purpose of obtaining a grant, or concession, from the king for a railway; and was especially directed to avoid the route advocated by the Messrs. Sprye. It would appear then that, after conceding to Mr. Barlow all that gentleman asked for, His Majesty has now resolved that he also will have a railway,—in fact two railways. we presume, are to be made. The route which the king patronizes is that which has been already described by Dr. Macfeis, and which is really the Messrs. Sprye' project slightly altered. If therefore, it be followed—if the railway be made, and realize the expectations which have been formed of it, our own government will have to connect it with Rangoon and handsomely reward the Messrs. Sprye, the authors of the project, and Dr. Macfeis, for having so greatly assisted in carrying it out.

By whom, and howsoever this great work may be accomplished, Rangoon will reap the benifit of it; and it will, more than any other thing, strengthen and maintain British ascendency in Burmah. If the King has arrived at his present resolution, after an intelligent consideration of the consequences, then he will afford a rare instance of a despotic Eastern Sovereign lending his aid to the advancement of Civilization and Science, at the risk of having to pay homage to them. It is no though His Majesty had said—You have desired to accomplish this work for your own benefit, and hitherto I have successfully prevented you; I have now not only stepped out of your way, but have resolved to assist you to the extent of my power. That this really is His Majesty's wisest course under present circumstances, we cannot doubt; but that he should have followed it voluntarily, and after mature deliberation, is a most agreeable surprise.

We have not yet heard what direction the line of railway with which Mr. Barlow is connected will take. It cannot, we imagine, have anything to do with the King's line, unless it branch off from the latter, but probably, ere long, we shall be supplied with this information.—Rangoon Gazette.

The Conduct of the English Press Towards Germany.

[Die Press—Vienna: Liberal. gu ant &c.]

It is quite of a piece with the rank selfishness and incredible ignorance of foreign relations displayed by the English for them to make bitter complaints about the treatment of Denmark by the two Great German Powers, as we see every day in the leading London papers. From the commonest invective to the most shameless suspicions, there is no abuse which is not every day heaped on the German Governments and Germany by the English papers. The press of a people proud of their liberty, who have lately been finishing themselves in "Garibaldianism," has no scruple about using the language of the blindest hate against kindred Germany. The universal paper (Weltblatt) the Times, formally declares war against Germany and puts her under a ban, as if she begged for England's friendship. The Times has no idea of the unmeasurable contempt which every honorable German feels for the shameful cynicism displayed in every English paper of whatever shade. The journal of the City (Cityblatt), has not the slightest need so tell us that England would see with pleasure, without stirring a finger, Cologne, brussels, and the Haag changed into the residences of French prefects. We know very well that all this is only a question of price with John Bull. Hear much will Bonaparte pay us to let him appropriate Germany, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland? This has become the modern political programme of the English. And it is the policy of a Whig Ministry—of a good and well-meaning man at the bottom like Earl Russel—which has made England an object of disgust to all nations which respect themselves! The English may compensate themselves with the flattery which Garibaldi gives them, and with the thanks of the Italians, and the love of the Danes and Greeks, for the "nameless" feeling which the policy of the Government, and the way in which they have aided with that policy, has aroused in Germany and the of the people of the United States. Such trachery cannot go unpunished, such baseness be unorplated: if it be true that history is the world's tribunal. Why is England the enemy of the American union and that secret ally slaveholders of the South? Because she fears the North may become too powerful, and put a limit to her greatness and her rule. Why is England the bitter enemy of Germany? Because, if Germany possessed Schleswing-Holstein and had a fleet, she would become a naval power. Do the pigmies in England who rave against Germany think they will avoid this danger by supporting the cause of Denmark against Germany? Do they think they can stop the movement which has arisen in Germany? However they may write, intrigue, abuse, or annoy us, they will only increase the longing for unity and power, and the sad experience the German people have had since the beginning of the war in Schleswig will only make this longing irresistible. Both on this and the other side of the Atlantic the policy of England presents the most pitiable spectacle. Vulgar love of cain, filthy interestedness, and unscrupulous selfishness are every where the springs of action with the English. If it offer them any momentary advantage or spare them any future anxiety, no cause is too bad for the English press to take it to their arms, utterly disregarding all dignity or self-respect. The whole globe may be turned into a desert, provided only the British garden be kept in good order. Nations may tear each other to pieces and consume each other, like the accursed in the lowest depths of the hell of Dante; if England only enjoys the blessings of undisturbed peace. The chemcat Liebig speaks of the paradox that England for many years has bought up all the bones in Germany to manure her soil, and that, in consequence, in a certain number of years the land will be made unfruitful in Germany if this land will be made unfruitful in Germany if this export of bones to England be not limited. We do not know whether the chemist is right, but we do know that the English are doing with the rights of Germany as they do with the bones of Germany. But "hamb-like," patient Germany will not stand this much longer, as is proved by the unappeasable wrath which England's policy in the Danish-German question has aroused. The dare to accuse Germany if violence against Denmark, they threaten Austria with insurrections in Hungary and Italy, Prussia with the sword of the French Emperor; they raise heaven and hell in their papers; and they have lately been exultant, because Clarendon has lately barged the temporary indifference of Napoleon, and thus insured, as they fancy, that the German plenipotentiries will have to accede to all the presumptuous demands of Denmark. And if Germany do not do this, they will cry out that she shoes her superior, power and trends all moderation under foot. Could greater moderation have been displayed by any one that shown by the two great German Powers were since the begining of this war? Could not the "nameless" feeling which the policy of the Government, and the way in which they have aided with that policy, has aroused in Germany and the of the people of the United States. Such trachery cannot go unpunished, such baseness be unorplated: if it be true that history is the world's tribunal.
